MORMONISM ON ITS LAST LEGS.—The Union Vedette, a true blue loyal paper, published at Camp Douglas, Utah Territory, is dealing the plurality wife system some heavy blows, and has created a decided sensation in the circles of the hiarchy, who have done all in their power to veil the rich resources of the Territory, so that the Gentiles might not be tempted to overrun his dominions. The Vedette fights under the protection of the American ægis, or, possibly, the editor might be put out of the way in the summary and mysterious manner in vogue among the Destroying Angels. Whatever the cause, a strong sentiment against polygamy is beginning to agitate the minds of the Mormons themselves, and the question what shall be done with the surplus wives is daily heard in conversation. Heathenism cannot long exist where education and free institutions are allowed a foothold. Mormonism has received a staggering blow, and will soon have ceased to exist, as an institution contrary to the spirit of Christian usages and the letter of the law.—S. F. Flag.

A DEED OF HORROR.—It will be remembered by our readers, that at the time the Gov't cattle grazing a few miles from Chattanooga, were driven off, by guerrillas, several soldiers were taken prisoners, and conveyed to Galesville, Cherokee county, Alabama, where they were placed in a prison, along with some others that had been captured previously. We are now informed through a letter from a young lady living near Galesville, written to her father in this city, that Gatewood went to the prison a few days previous to her writing, took nine of the soldiers out of the jail, marched them to the bank of the river and there shot them, afterwards throwing their bodies in the Chatooga river. Gatewood has declared that he will take no more soldiers as prisoners unless the Federal authorities recognize him as a regular Confederate officer. This atrocious deed seems almost too incredible for belief, but it comes to us from undoubted authority.—Chattanooga Ex.

SERGEANT AIKEN.—Sergt. Aiken, the soldier who was accidentally killed near Carson City last Sunday, was formerly a resident of Forest Hill, California, and popularly known among his friends as "Hank Aiken." He was a most excellent young man, a native of Illinois, aged about thirty years, and a tinner by trade.—G. H. News, April 6th.

"THE arrangements of nature are admirable," exclaimed a pretty young belle, during the late high wind. "The same wind which disarranges our crinoline blows dust in the eyes of the wicked young men who would take advantage of our confusion.' Philosophical young lady, that.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 18, 1865

No Asylum for Assassins.

Since the day, when Abraham Lincoln was first elected President of the United States, it has been known that a conspiracy existed to compass his death at the hands of assassins. Baltimore was then to have been the theater of the bloody tragedy, but, the fact becoming known, its performance was necessarily postponed to some more adventitious period. But the coward scheme was never abandoned; and from time to time, during the last four years, words of warning have come to our ears, which we now perceive, when too late, had better been regarded.

We know that a price had been set upon his head, but who could comprehend, that even traitors had descended to such depths of madness as seriously to contemplate a scheme of such hellish malignancy? And yet, what sensible reason could we ever offer that they would not attempt its accomplishment whenever opportunity should serve their purpose. Surely the course of rebellion from its very beginning has furnished us very little excuse for self-deception It was the foulest treason in its inception and has been characterized by the most vindictive atrocity throughout.

It is in vain that we attempt to pur suade ourselves, for the sake of humanity, that Jeff. Davis and his lesser satelites, the very Lucifers of this rebellion, men who "fired the Southern heart" with such fiendish exultations, are not now, and have not been, the unfailing source, from which this devilish conspiracy has drawn its monstrous existence, and been fed with more poisonous rancor. Less than one year ago, it will be remembered, the dark scheme, in all its horrid details, was brought to us from Richmond, but we did not heed, or had forgotten, in the hour of victory, the timely warning. For this and many crimes of similar atrocity, the leaders of the rebellion must be held responsible to the nation and to humanity, for God knows we have borne enough at their hands.

Their secret machinations have at length succeeded, the thunderbolt has fallen, and a Nation, nay, the civilized world, is clad in mourning. The assassins have done their horrid work and fled—fled from the face of man, from the accusing light of heaven, and where on earth shall they find refuge from their unparalleled crime? There is not a corner of the universe, however dark, or distant, where their evil fame will not follow and damn them to an eternity of infamy. Their hands are covered with innocent blood, and, wherever they seek to hide themselves, their dread secret will attend them, and men will shrink from their touch in fear and loathing as enemies of their kind.

If there was one deeper stain wanting, to make indellible the guilt of treason spawned by slavery, that stain has now been given and the picture is complete in all its ghastly coloring.

This stroke was intended by its authors to have been the coup de grace, which should strike down the Nation through its Chief Magistrate, and was reserved till the desperate moment should arrive when its fatal effects must be most appalling. But how unwisely have they reckoned. They have only hastened their inevitable doom by committing suicide. The scorpion of treason circled with fire, in its blindly malignant attempts to kill, has stung itself to death.

No nation, however willing, will henceforth dare to afford asylum to such wretched criminals, for humanity would cry out loudly against the outrage and demand that these human wolves should be hunted from the world.

When news of the President's assassination was received in the city all places of business were at once closed, flags were hoisted at half-mast, and many houses were hung with the emblems of mourning. The theater was closed and draped in the sombre symbols of death The citizens have done themselves lasting honor on this sad occasion, and we acknowledge the display of deep feeling on their part with the gratitude it deserves. Where, in the civilized world, indeed, will men not stand aghast at this terrible tragedy? A nobler than Cæsar has fallen, by no less bloody means, and the hearts of loyal men are in the martyrs coffin. Alas! we feel prostrated by this mortal blow and have little heart to put our thoughts on paper.

The man "Hale", who expressed himself pleased with the murder of the President, when the sad truth was known in the City, and who is now in the Guard House at this post, is, it seems one of Longstreet's veterans, he having served with that officer in the rebel service; but having become dissatisfied, deserted to our line and was allowed his liberty —on taking the oath of allegiance.

This is the manner in which kindness to traitors is by them appreciated.

[Correspondence from Beaver.]

BEAVER, BEAVER CO., April 6th, 1865.

EDITOR VEDETTE: Dear Sir:—There are "a few names in Sardis" (or Beaver) who are extremely anxious to procure a National Flag, now that it is not considered apostacy to join in a procession with that glorious piece of bunting waving over our heads. But, the fact is, we are too poor to purchase the material to make one, and my object in writing to you is, to see if you can imform us how to procure one second-hand. We wish to unfurl it to the breeze in the midst of those worse than Copperheads by whom we are surrounded. I have ever supported our glorious Government, but especially since the commencement of this wicked rebellion. In Monterey, California, I inaugurated a Sanitary Commission, which did much to relieve the suffering of my unfortunate countrymen, considering the number of Americans in that place. I have not grown weary in well-doing, and I know of nothing that would give me more pleasure than advancing the interests of the glorious Union. Yours, truly,

PATRIOT.

We mentioned the laudable design of our correspondent to some friends and it was unanimously decided to get a flag by subscription, if necessary, and if any means of transmittal can be pointed out by "Patriot," we will venture that in due time he will receive something to represent loyal bunting.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

[SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION VEDETTE.]

New York, April 16th.

Miss Harris, who was in the box with the President, makes the following statement:

Nearly an hour before the commission of the deed, the assassin came to the door of the box, looked in and took a survey of the position of its occupants. It was supposed at the time, that it was either a mistake or the exercise of impertinent curiosity. The circumstance attracted no particular attention at the time. Upon entering the box again, Maj. Rathburne rose and asked the intruder his business—he rushed past the Major without making any reply, placing his pistol close to the back of the President's head and actually in contact with it, fired, and instantly sprang upon the cushioned balustrade of the box, when he made a backward plunge, with his knife aimed at the face or breast of Mr Lincoln. Maj. Rathburne, springing forward to protect the President, received a stab in the arm. The murderer then jumped upon the stage and effected his escape. The rapidity with which the attack was committed upon the President was astounding. Mrs. Lincoln saw the form of the person go down from the box and thought Mr. Lincoln had fallen out, and looked to see if she could see him on the floor, and barely saw the culprit jump to the stage, when, alas! she turned her eyes to the box and saw Mr. Lincoln's head had dropped forward upon his breast, and at once realized what had transpired.

From the moment the President was shot, up to his death, he was insensible and exhibited no signs of pain, and recognized no one; in fact it is believed that he had not opened his eyes. The blood troubled his breathing, often making it exceedingly difficult.

Washington, April 16th.

General Ord has issued the following order:

All officers and soldiers of the army of Northern Virginia, who were not present at the surrender of that army by Gen. Lee, on the 19th of April, are hereby informed that the terms of capitulation are extended to them, and that they can at once avail themselves of the same by coming within the lines of the United States forces at or near Richmond and laying down their arms and receiving their paroles.

The gentleman who communicates the above information, says: Lee did not, after the surrender, repair to North Carolina, but has been remaining at Appomattox Court House to carry out the terms of capitulation, and it is supposed by this time that he is in Richmond: General Grant having extended him the courtesy of an escort of 100 cavalry. The best possible feeling exists between the two Generals.

Nothing definite has recently been heard from Johnston's army. It is the impression that it will be disbanded, or melt away by desertion, provided a spirit to conciliate the discordant element be not manifest.

A Last Call to Deserters.

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT.

Whereas, the twenty-first section of the Act of Congress approved on the 3d inst., entitled "An Act to Amend the several Acts heretofore passed to provide for the enrolling and calling out the National forces, and for other purposes," requires that in addition to the other law penalties of the crime of desertion from the military or naval service, "all persons who have deserted the military or naval service of the United States, who shall not return to said service or report themselves to a Provost Marshall within sixty days after the proclamation hereinafter mentioned, shall be deemed and taken to have volontarily relinquished and forfeited their rights to become citizens; and such deserters shall be forever incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under the United States, or of exercising any rights of citizens thereof; and all persons who shall hereafter desert the military or naval service, and all persons who, being duly enrolled, shall depart the jurisdiction of the district in which he is enrolled, or go beyond the United States with intent to avoid any draft into the military or naval service duly ordered, shall be liable to the penalties of this section; and the President is hereby authorized and required forthwith, on the passage of this Act, to issue his proclamation setting forth the provisions of this section, in which proclamation the President is requested to to notify all deserters returning within sixty days as aforesaid, that they shall be pardoned on condition of returning to their regiments and companies, or to such other organizations as they may be assigned to, until they shall have served for a period of time equal to their original term of enlistment.

Now, therefore, be it known that I Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, do issue this my proclamation, as required by said Act, ordering and requiring all deserters to return to their proper posts; and I do hereby notify them that all deserters who shall, within sixty days from the date of this proclamation, viz: on or before the 10th day of May, 1865, return to service, or report themselves to a Provost Marshall, shall be pardoned, on condition that they return to their regiments and companies, or to such other organizations as they may be assigned to, and serve the remainder of their original terms of enlistment, and in addition thereto a period equal to the time lost by desertion.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 11th day of March, in the year of our Lord 1865, and of the independence of the United States the eighty-ninth.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

By the President:
W. H. SEWARD, Secy. of State.

AN ADDRESS TO THE PEOPLE

BY A RESIDENT OF UTAH.

ARTICLE 12.

Their real estate gone, which, though small, they had spent years in obtaining; their clothing, all that was worthy of the name, sold; their only resource left, was the sale of the watch the doting father had given as the parting gift to his son, with the injunction that he ever keep it for that father's sake; the set of jewelry, tearfully presented by that "best of women," as the the parting token of that love that was too eloquent in its deep pathos for utterance in mortal language; the last memorial of a brother's zealous attachment, or a sisters fond affection, were the sacrifices that had now to be made for the bread to sustain their wives and little ones, to be rendered houseless and homeless at the fiat of their spiritual and temporal head.

These gone, and their means of subsistence consumed, their only prospect for a livelihood consisted in that of laboring for those who had the means and therefore the power to command labor on their own terms. And cheerless as the prospect was, the reality was more cheerless still.

Soon after the conference, the move southward commenced, and was continued 'till June, the people settling in Lehi and thence in the settlements for about a hundred miles further south. But, oh, the misery! the appalling wretchedness! the abject poverty! the untold sufferings of many of these poor, yet honest, deluded ones, who can describe? While being continually taught that they were led by a man of God guided by revelation, that they were being led away from the oppressors and despoilers associated with the United States Army, who would rob and waste them away, they were being oppressed beyond all precedent in modern history by those very teachers themselves. Scores of instances might be cited in support of this statement, but out of the many I will select but two.

Previous to leaving Great Salt Lake City, a certain noted and very influential financier purchased an immense quantity of groceries, among which was a very formidable pile of tobacco. This article, with his other goods, was taken to Provo, where he selected his temporary abiding place. There were many who had used the weed so long that it had become a habit almost inseparable from their nature; and as there was none to be obtained in Provo, they had to apply to the Great Financier for it, who, with unheard of generosity (!) and unparalelled brotherly kindness (!) furnished them one plug of tobacco in exchange for one cord of wood!

The other instance referred to, was that of the very worthy "right-hand man" of the financier. Before leaving Great Salt Lake City, he had a number of his brethren load his wagons. One large box had marked on it in bold characters the words "Superfine Flour." Of this article he was supposed to possess a large quantity, and the box would have passed without attracting special attention from the majority, had not an accident occurred, which exposed the deceit of its corrupt owner. By some means, perhaps through suspicion on the part of one of the hands, the box got broke, and out came the "superfine flour" in the form of, and possessing all the flavor and essentials of, the best crushed sugar!

The reported breaking down of a team on the way south, and the rolling out of the twenty dollar gold pieces, wrung from the toils and sweats of the hireling, but scantily remunerated for his labors in the multifarious kind of pay denominated in Utahian parlance, "chips and whetstones." I will leave for other pens to describe, satisfied that the instances given, will be ample evidence to the reflective mind that the allegation of oppression and deceit is not unjustly made.

California Despatch.

FROM THE PACIFIC.

In San Francisco, on Saturday, upon the receipt of the news of President Lincoln's assassination, the stores and public buildings were closed and flags in the city and barbor were displayed at half-mast.

A mob suddenly collected and destroyed the material of the Democratic Press, Monitor, News Letter and Occidental, copperhead newspapers, before they could be stopped by the police. All was then made quiet and no more disturbance occurred.

The whole city is in mourning and great anxiety is expressed for the news of the condition of Secretary Seward.

On the 27th day of February, 1865, 6,685 men were enlisted into the service. The average number of men mustered daily for the last three days of February was 3,200. The average number of men mustered for the last ten days of that month was 3,216.

Artemus Ward says: "If I am drafted I will resign. Deeply grateful for the unexpected honor thus conferred upon me, I shall feel compelled to resign the position in favor of some more worthy person. Modesty is what ails me. That's what keeps me under."

The Post puts the Currency, State and National, now out, at nine hundred millions! The National Banks, it argues, have failed of their original purpose, which was, to dispose of Government bonds. This, it says, is now mainly done by private Bankers.

The rebel General Price says he "might have brought an army of 60,000 men out of Missouri, if he had arms for them." Price's soldiers generally stand more in need of legs.

Local Matters.

On Saturday last, at sunrise, the sad news was conveyed to our camp of the assassination, in cold blood, of Abraham Lincoln, the Chief Magistrate of the American Nation. The flag was at once hoisted at half-mast and draped in mourning, and all avoidable duties were, for the day, abandoned. The news overwhelmed everyone with grief, tears were shed by those who never before knew what it was to shed the like. Every one seemed afflicted with an unusual sadness, and a deep melancholy was depicted upon the countenance of all. Yesterday a gun was fired every half hour through the day. The officers are wearing the badge of mourning upon the left arm.

The merchants, bankers, saloon keepers, and all business men of Salt Lake City, closed their places of business at 10 A. M., on Saturday. The flags on all the public buildings, Brigham Young's residence, stores, etc., were displayed at half-mast, with crape drooping over them. Many of the principal stores and private residences were dressed in mourning. Brigham Young's carriage was driven through town, covered with crape. The theater was closed for Saturday evening, the usual night of performance. and every respect was shown for the death of our honored President. On Sunday the Tabernacle pulpit, S. L. City, was covered with crape, and every one throughout the city, that is, of the right minded class, manifested the deepest sorrow at the horrible news conveyed by the telegraph.

Runaway.—Yesterday, at the report of one of the half hour guns, fired at eleven o'clock, A. M., the horse of Capt Stover, attached to his buggy, became frightened, broke from its fastenings and started on the run through camp, and after having made a half circuit of the Parade Ground, he at lightning speed crossed the bridge between camp and Gen. Connor's former head-quarters, visited the stables and premises in rear of those head-quarters and feeling anxious to return to town, minus his passenger, off he went down the hill, and was, at our last sight of him, in a fair way to reach the city much sooner than the Captain intended.

The news of the Presidents assassination, has infused a spirit of dreadful revenge into the hearts of the soldiers of Gen. Connor's command, at this post. They marched in a body to the Guard House, on Saturday, and were bent on taking the man "Scotty," who had made himself exultant at the death of Nation's Saviour, and hanging him, and had it not been for the timely interference of Col. George, we fear that the "seseh" would have been roughly handled Traitors will do well to keep their mouths closed in this District, or if they open them, be careful what escapes their lips. The death of the President has made our volunteers say "death to rebels."

Two men, calling themselves "Scotty" and "Hale," were arrested on Saturday by the U. S. Provost Guard, for expressing themselves as happy over the news of the President's demise.

They were quickly placed in charge of the guard, and will, we sincerely hope, have justice meted to them. It is time that leniency to blatant traitors should be abolished, and these devilish secessionists be made to suffer for their crimes.

A lot of chess men have been lost by a member of the Camp Brass Band. He will reward the finder liberally.

CURIOUS SCIENTIFIC PHENOMENON.—As Mr. David Cowan, assayer, of this city, was running lines on a neighboring river, he discovered that the brass compass strewed on the top of his Jacob's staff, was moving to the right, at the rate of fifteen degress per minute. Robert Hereford and the chain men were witnesses of this singular and unprecedented motion. This occurred for the space of about six chains on the ice, and no where else. The next day the same phenomena occurred, though with something less force at the same place, and there only. The needle was not at all affected. A lateral force of one pound is required to move the compass round. Mr. Cowan believes in the existance of some great deposit of mineral in the locality, and means to explore it. Four men vouch for the truth of the story.—Montana Post.

A WIT being told that an old acquaintance was married, exclaimed, "I am glad to hear it." But reflecting a moment, he added, in a tone of compassion and forgetfulness, "and yet I don't know why I should be— he never did me any harm."

NEGROES hire out in Goldsboro, South Carolina, at the following rates: Men, $600 to $800; women, $400 to $600; house servants, $400 to 600; plough boys, $300 to $600.
